Hiyo again!

I am very pleased to hear that you will be having comics featuring Ed, Edd, n Eddy, Courage the Cowardly Dog, and Sheep in the Big City! Hmm . . . Whatever happened to that other Cartoon Cartoon, Mike, Lu & Og? A lot of people miss it, namely me! Og, Goat, and Lancelot rock! Oh well, I can't have everything! But I know I can't wait to see those Ed-Boys (especially Double D) in your comics, as well as the other wonderful Cartoon Cartoons! By the way, I think you should have a Johnny Bravo story dedicated to only the best person on that show, Carl! LOL! Anyway, keep up the excellent work! Baaa bye!

To whom it may concern:

I've enjoyed reading the Toonami issues of Birdman and the Herculoids and would like to know when you'll bring them back to publication again, please? I enjoyed the issues because of the attention to colors, characters and stories. If the Toonami series is revived in the future, will you adapt the original Birdman and Herculoids episodes, please? Much thanks.

Hi, David. I'm afraid we're working on too many other cool new Cartoon Network books to be able to publish Toonami comics right now. We know you didn't miss Birdman's starring role in our CARTOON CARTOONS #3 comic, and every third issue is an all-SPACE GHOST special. CARTOON CARTOONS #6 will be the next to feature Space Ghost, and who knows what other classic characters roaming the Galaxy will apear! Hope you enjoy them, and thanks for reading!

Dear Cartoon Notes #17:

Red Devil was the orneriest bucking bronco in rodeo history.

Johnny Bravo had great luck in not getting bucked off the killer bronco. His belt could easily have broken. I bet Johnny clearly knows the difference between 25-cent horsey rides outside a shoestore and a real bucking bronco. I thought the horse was never going to tire.

Things went from bad to worse. Red Devil and Bull Ripsnort were too much for Johnny Cowboy. I was surprised and had a good laugh as Johnny won Bucking Bronco and Bull Roping contests.

Johnny got the right sort of job in the final scene of "Giddy-Up Johnny." Wild Bucky Bronco, the owner of the rodeo, gave Johnny a job that fit his clownish personality. I felt sorry for the girls, who had to put up with Johnny in a rodeo clown suit. I giggled when I noticed that the horse being ridden by a cowgirl in the last picture was green. It added to the funny, spirited atmosphere. Johnny had better get ready to roll on a barrel. Rip Snort wants to gain a new trophy for his living room wall.

I liked how in the "Beach Blanket Bravo" story Carl had to rescue Johnny from drowning. I expected that Johnny did not know how to swim. He just took the lifeguard job because there were lots of beautiful women on the beach.

I also liked the "Shear Terror" story about Sheep in the Big City. I noticed the cartoon but have not had a chance to watch the series yet. General Specific ought to have more intelligent and better-sighted soldiers. I was happy Sheep wore a General Specific costume as Private Public did. The soldiers beat up the wrong character. Sheep was then allowed a fabulous night of sleeping.

I worked on the CROSSWORD PUZZLE OF IMPOSSIBILITY for two minutes and have already given up on this ridiculous project.
